

AMSTERDAM SCHOOL ARCHITECTURE TOUR 2024 EXPRESSIONIST DESIGN GUIDE

The Amsterdam School of Architecture, an avant-garde early 20th-century style, is a treat for those fascinated by expressionist design. Noteworthy structures such as Het Schip located in Spaarndammerbuurt, and De Dageraad in Amsterdam South, offer a deep dive into this unique architectural movement. Michel de Klerk, a key figure in the Amsterdam School, designed many of these iconic buildings. Museum Het Schip not only showcases extensive exhibits but also provides guided tours of the neighborhood. For 2024, augmented reality tours have been introduced, allowing visitors to envision the original designs alongside current structures. From White Tulip Hostel, a visit to Het Schip is just a 20-minute ride on bus 22, and De Dageraad is a 30-minute trip on tram 24. Discover the Gem of Dutch Architecture Immerse in Amsterdam School's Iconic Designs The Amsterdam School, a jewel of Dutch architecture, emerged in the early 20th century, characterized by its ornate brickwork, expressive forms, and intricate details.
