

DO DORM BEDS AT THE WHITE TULIP HOSTEL AMSTERDAM HAVE PRIVACY CURTAINS

Dorm beds at The White Tulip Hostel Amsterdam rarely have privacy curtains according to the hostel's official room and review information. Guests should not assume that a curtain is included and should check current photos and details for the exact dorm they plan to book. Do dorm beds at The White Tulip Hostel Amsterdam have privacy curtains Privacy curtains are not a standard feature to rely on. Official White Tulip information says dorm beds rarely have curtains and describes privacy in the compact shared rooms as limited. How can guests check the bed layout before booking Review recent room photos and the current description for your chosen dorm. This is more reliable than assuming that every dorm bed has the same layout or privacy features. What should privacy conscious travellers consider Shared dorms are designed around a social hostel setup, so travellers who need more separation should compare the available room types and contact the hostel before booking. The official page about room photos and reviews can help set expectations. Book through the official White Tulip Hostel website only after checking that the selected room layout matches your privacy needs.
